Petition to Internet Service Providers on Blocking Illegal Child Sexual Abuse Images Websites

Background:

The harm from the Internet child sexual abuse industry is broadly known and expanding; and children are the victims of rape, abuse and exploitation by predators for self-gratification and financial gain. The Internet Service Providers are corporate citizens with a moral responsibility to provide a service that does not bring risks into our homes and communities. The technology exists to block illegal child sexual abuse images websites. Criminal Code, Section 161, makes importing, distributing, selling or possessing child porn an indictable offense. So why are internet providers immune?

Petition:

Whereas, we petition you as a Service Provider to fully cooperate with law enforcement and to develop and implement technology to prevent access to specific illegal websites that are known to contain child rape and abuse images and pedophile newsgroups, as British Telecom has done, and to develop a specialized child and family safe Internet service.

We petition you as a responsible corporate citizen to apply the same actions as required by professionals, such as teachers or social workers, to report abuse or suspected abuse of children and other criminal activity.

We, the undersigned, would consider the purchase of Internet services from a provider committed to being a leader in addressing child exploitation, working proactively with law enforcement and government and providing child and family safe Internet services.
